

How to publish scientific results and how important it is for your career

D. Robert Iskander
Department of Biomedical Engineering
Wrocław University of Science and Technology

30 January 2024

Abstract

This is a slide-free talk (but with use of IT) on some techniques graduate students may find useful in their early research. Specifically, focus will be made on information retrieval skills and objective evaluation of the quality of published works.

About the lecturer

Everybody knows Rob. He is a cool Aussie guy and a good fellow (most of the times).